

Labor Day Accidents Kill 550 Americans

Surpasses All-Time High Of 1937

(By The Associated Press)
A record of 550 persons were killed in accidents during the Labor Day weekend. A final tally of the three-day holiday death toll showed 410 persons killed in traffic accidents, 53 drowned, and 87 lives ended violently in miscellaneous mishaps including fire, plane crashes and falls. The deaths occurred throughout the nation at a rate of about one each eight and one half minutes during the 72-hour period from 6 p.m., Friday to midnight Monday.

Far Over Record
Both the overall toll and that resulting from traffic crashes set new gruesome records for the Labor Day holiday, eclipsing the previous high rolled up in 1937. That year 428 persons were killed in all accidents, 302 of them in traffic.

In addition to the fatalities last weekend, thousands of persons were injured. Many will die of their injuries in coming days and weeks. The national safety council estimated that the immediate deaths account for only about 60 per cent of the eventual fatalities.

The heavy toll took safety experts completely by surprise. Ned H. Dearborn, president of the safety council, said he was "aghast" at the mortality returns. "It is enough to make every decent American sick at heart and boiling mad," he said, "it is time that the country took steps to stop this sort of thing."

The safety council estimated that 30,000 automobiles were on the nation's highways during the holiday.

Cops Get Tip That 2, Held For Deaths, Plan To Escape

Chicago, Sept. 6.—(AP)—The county jail warden said he had a tip today that two men accused of killing two armored express guards in a bank holdup planned to escape.

Warden Chester L. Fordney said "reliable sources" told him someone outside the jail arranged to pay a guard $500 for smuggling a pistol to either Richard Tamborski, 28, or Joseph Jakalski, 32. Fordney did not name any guard.

Jakalski and Tamborski are charged with murder in the machine-gunning of two Brinks and Company guards, Joseph Den and Bruno Korol, during a holdup June 25 at the South Chicago Savings Bank, 2959 East 92nd street.

Kept in separate cells in the observation tier of the jail, the two prisoners were searched today but no weapon was found. Fordney said he learned a Belgian make gun, small and easily dismantled, was to have been smuggled to them.

P. E. O. Sisterhood Opens Convention

Chicago, Sept. 6.—(AP)—The supreme convention of the P.E.O. sisterhood opened today. It will continue through Thursday, Sept. 8.

Dr. Blanche Hinman Dow, newly elected president of Cottey Junior College, Nevada, Mo., owned by the sisterhood, will be the main speaker at the convention.

The P.E.O. sisterhood claims a membership of 100,000 in the United States, Canada, Hawaii, and Alaska. The meaning of the letters is one of the secrets of the sisterhood.

Mrs. R. J. Raney, of 3500 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago, will be presiding officer in her capacity as president of the supreme chapter.

The horse isn't here to stay. In a relatively short time, geologically speaking, Dobbin will disappear. Railway company for class B railroads, and the Missouri-Illinois, Ultimate vanishing date for the roads, has been set at perhaps 15 or 20 million years hence.

Senators Set For Big Battle Over Trade

Washington, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Both democratic and republican leaders appeared to be taking a "no compromise" attitude today on the eve of a hard Senate fight over legislation to extend the reciprocal trade treaty program.

Democratic aides gave out word that Senator Lucas of Illinois, the democratic Senate leader, will oppose any compromise with republicans who want to retain the "peril point" provision that the republican 80th Congress wrote into the trade agreements act.

This provision requires the tariff commission to advise the president of the point beyond which proposed tariff concessions cannot go without endangering U. S. producers, and compels him to explain to congress if he grants concessions beyond the "peril points."

Senator Millikin of Colorado, the ranking republican member of the Senate finance committee, predicted to reporters that "enough democrats" will join republicans to add the "peril points" to the administration's extension bill.

The House-approved bill would extend the trade treaty law as it existed before the 80th Congress. At that time it simply gave the president authority to negotiate tariff-cutting trade agreements with other nations, and did not require the tariff commission to calculate "peril points."

In an interview Millikin said he plans to demand not only that the "peril point" provision be written into the extension bill but that the administration "put the brakes" on its use of the most favored nation clause in trade agreements.

The most favored nation clause provides that the country with which a trade agreement is made shall receive concessions equal to those granted any other nation.

Shirley France, 17, was killed today when she was hit by a car while swimming in the water near her home in Dover, England. She was 10 years old and had been in the water 10 hours and 40 minutes. She actually had swum about 30 miles through changing tides which swept back and forth and held her to within 14 miles of France's sunny coastline.

Her failure dimmed dreams of movie stardom, of riches and fame. Her attempt was one of the most pretentious channel swims of all time. A large international press corps watched from official and specially chartered boats. Press accounts of her progress were broadcast.

She had hoped to be the 29th—and youngest—swimmer to conquer the stretch of buffeting water which standard reference works say is 20 to 22 miles wide. She also had hoped to beat the 1926 woman's record of Gertrude Ederle who swam the distance in 14 hours, 31 minutes. Shirley May started the swim against the advice of her father.

"Like leading a lamb to slaughter," he said when she walked into the water in rain and darkness at Cap Gris Nez, France, at 5:25 a.m.

Dan Barton Weds Anne Henderson

Chicago, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Actor Dan Barton, 27, and actress Anne Henderson, 28, appeared before a circuit judge today and took marriage vows.

Barton currently is playing "Stefanowski" in Mister Roberts at the Erlanger theater. Miss Henderson's home is Los Angeles.

They met seven years ago when both had roles in Junior Miss here. They plan to settle in New York after Mister Roberts closes here. Meanwhile, the bride said, she hopes to find time for a brief honeymoon "somewhere in Indiana."

The awards will be distributed at a dinner here Sept. 14.

The museum said E. H. Harriman would be awarded the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad company, for class A railroads; Duluth, Missabe & Iron Range and overthrown on a highway car near Goderich today. His wife, 85, suffered a possible fractured collarbone and ribs and chest injuries. Charlton was treated for shock.

Talks On Britain's Economic Illness Opens In Capital

Washington, Sept. 6.—(AP)—A top-level clinic on Britain's economic illness opens here tomorrow, with her socialist leaders prepared to argue that the malady cannot be traced to the British social welfare program.

At least a stop-gap remedy is the goal of the conference, which will bring together such leaders as: Secretary of the Treasury Snyder, Secretary of State Acheson, Foreign Minister Bevin; Sir Stafford Cripps, British chancellor of the exchequer; and Douglas Abbott, Canadian finance minister.

Unable to earn enough dollars to pay for vital imports, the island country finds itself in a crisis. Despite Marshall plan aid the crisis has deepened in recent weeks.

The sales of British goods in dollar markets have fallen off sharply, partly because American and Canadian buyers think they are too high priced.

As a result, the British government has been forced to use its old and dollar reserves to meet expenses. These reserves have now dwindled to $1,600,000,000—about $400,000,000 below what was considered the minimum safety level.

Missouri Railroad Puts Embargo On Freight Shipments

St. Louis, Sept. 6.—(AP)—The Missouri Pacific railroad announced today it is placing an embargo on freight shipments at midnight tonight because of a strike of operating employees set for next Friday.

An embargo on passenger, mail, baggage and express service will start at midnight Thursday, the railroad announced.

The walkout would tie up operation of the line and idle about 30,000 Mopac employees.

The strike by 5,000 operating employees was set for 3 p.m. (EST) Friday by four brotherhoods as a result of 262 unsettled claims. The grievances involve more than $3,000,000 and are based on differences in interpretation of operating rules, a union official said.

Officers of the brotherhoods announced after a meeting today they are "ready and willing to do everything within our power in a further effort to settle" the dispute.

However, when asked for clarification of the announcement R. E. Davidson, a spokesman for the brotherhoods, said the next move was up to the management.

States Gas Made From Coal Would Cost Little More

Washington, Sept. 6.—(AP)—The Bureau of Mines said today gasoline can be made from coal to sell for only three or four cents a gallon more than natural gasoline.

The estimate was part of a report prepared by staff members of the bureau's coal-to-oil demonstration plant at Louisiana, Mo.

James Boyd, bureau director, said the report demonstrated that "unlimited quantities of premium gasoline now could be produced from coal at a cost that would increase the current service station price to the consumer by only three to four cents a gallon."

"Through the sale of byproduct phenols, for which demand may be limited, a few initial plants could produce gasoline at even lower cost," Boyd said.

Scientists Say Emu Lays World's Tastiest Eggs
Newcastle-Upon-Tyne, Eng., Sept. 6.—(AP)—The Emu lays the world's tastiest eggs.

That report was given to the zoology section of the British association for the advancement of science today by Dr. H. B. Cott of Cambridge University.

How did Dr. Cott find out? Well, a panel of scientists at Cambridge sampled 134 different kinds of eggs, including those of the Emu, an ostrich-like Australian bird.

Dr. Cott said the test proved the theory that eggs with the most colorful shells are the worst tasting. He added that the American eastern house wren laid the worst tasting egg.

FREE CORN BREAD, BEANS
Tuscola, Ill., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Corn bread and beans will be served here free to all comers Sept. 28.

A parade of floats, street dancing, barber shop quartet singing, and other attractions will be included in the annual corn bread and beans day, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

BIGGEST BONEHEAD
The biggest bonehead that ever lived was a dinosaur, whose head was topped with a huge dome of dense, solid bone, with extra trimmings of bone knobs, bumps and points, known as the pachycephalosaurus.

Bride's Body Lashed To Rigging Tells Of Boat Disaster On Lake

Chicago, Sept. 6.—(AP)—A battered, drifting sailboat—with a young bride's body lashed to the rigging—unfolded today the story of a sudden squall that brought death to four holiday sailors.

The body was that of Mrs. Laura Neitzel, 22, of Chicago.

She and her husband, Carl Neitzel, 29, an engineer, set sail on Lake Michigan at 5 a. m. Sunday for Michigan City, Ind., with Louis D. Ma Quessan, 24, and his wife Clarence, 22, both of Chicago.

They left the Jackson Park yacht harbor aboard the 30 foot auxiliary yawl Lorelei II, named after the legendary siren that lured boatmen to their death on the rocks.

Nothing more was heard of the four until the swamped craft was located this morning by the coast guard.

Chief warrant boatswain Kenneth

Foster, U. S. C. G., commanding officer of the old Chicago station, said Mrs. Neitzel's body bruised and bloody, with part of her clothing torn away, was lashed to the forestay, a line used to support the mast.

The shredded remnants of a life jacket were bound to the jigger-mast aft, indicating that another person had been secured for safety, then swept away.

The log of the craft bore the following penciled entry:
"Sept. 4—6:45 a. m.—Wind puffy and plenty of wind."

The last entry in the log the same day, Sunday, was made at 10:15 a. m. It said "We had cracked and boiled eggs."

Boatswain's mate Glen McGeorge, U. S. C. G., said the condition of the body indicated that she had been dead about 24 hours.

The weather bureau said there were thunder squalls and unofficial reports of 70-mile-an-hour gusts of wind over the southern part of Lake Michigan Sunday afternoon.

McGeorge said that the vessel had all sails set and the masts were standing.

An empty life preserver was found floating about 20 years from where the Lorelei II was found, some eight miles due east of Chicago.

Foster said the coast guard cutter Frederick Lee would continue to search for the missing members of the party.

Mrs. Gladys Swenson, mother of Mrs. Neitzel, said the two couples were due to come back to Chicago on Labor Day evening.

The Neitzels, Mrs. Swenson said, had bought the Lorelei II after they got married this summer.

Three hours later police learned Unruh had been wounded. Unruh sat for two and one-half hours answering questions before he told police he had been shot in the buttock. He was hustled off to Cooper hospital for an operation.

In his room, police found a well-worn Bible, opened at chapter 24 of the Gospel according to St. Matthew.

The passage read:
"And ye shall hear of wars and rumors of wars: See that ye be not troubled: For all these things must come to pass but the end is not yet."

Some neighbors said Unruh often walked the streets while thumbing through his Bible.

Had Arsenal
Detective Marshall Thompson said Unruh had an "arsenal of weapons" in his home. In the basement of his home Unruh had set up a target range.

Also in the basement police found gun-cleaning equipment and bullet-making tools.

The victims of what is believed to be the greatest mass massacre on a city street were five women, five men and two children, aged two and six.

The six-year-old was shot down as he sat on a hobby horse in a barber shop, having his hair cut. Unruh also cut down the barber.

Mitchell H. Cohen, Camden county prosecutor, said Unruh told him the shootings were part of a "preconceived plan" and that the war veteran "could clearly remember every detail of every shooting."

Neighbors Talked About Him
He said murder charges have been lodged against Unruh.

Cohen quoted the killer as saying in an oral statement:
"They (the neighbors) had been talking about me for some time and making derogatory remarks about my character. I had been thinking about killing them for some time."

Last night I went to a theater (Family) in Philadelphia, sat through several shows, came home about 3 a. m. I made up my mind to kill them this morning." (The theater program listed a double bill: "Fear in the Night" and "For You I Die.")

Unruh got up about 7 a. m., and his mother gave him breakfast. Then:
"I put my preconceived plan into execution."

Thompson said, police learned that Unruh had quarreled with Maurice Cohen, 40-year-old druggist who lived next door at 3200 River road over using Cohen's yard to get to and from the street. Unruh's home has no front entrance.

Ingrid, Rossellini Win Movie Fight Over Hollywood
Rome, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Ingrid Bergman and Roberto Rossellini won a battle with Hollywood, it was learned today.

A source close to the movie pair said they had successfully fought a Hollywood studio edict to return there for final processing of their new film, "Stromboli."

The process, known as cutting, usually is undertaken in Hollywood where facilities are better and costs lower. Both the Swedish star and her Italian partner-director, however, balked at a trip to the United States at this time, and the cutting will be done here.

Miss Bergman has announced plans to divorce her husband, Los Angeles surgeon Peter Lindstrom. She also says she has retired from pictures, but Roman movie circles predict she will change her mind.

WEATHER
The Norbury Sanatorium, cooperative observer for the U.S. Weather Bureau, yesterday reported the temperatures for Tuesday as follows: High, 72; low, 53; and at 6 p.m., 70.

Forecast for Illinois—Mostly cloudy with showers today. Little change in temperature. Low 56 to 60. High 71 to 75.

2 Children, 5 Women, 5 Men Victims

Camden, N. J., Sept. 6.—(AP)—A Bible-reading ex-GI slaughtered 12 persons on a busy Camden street today.

Slowly and without a spoken word 28-year-old Howard Unruh stalked from door to door on the shop-lined street, firing his German Lugger with deadly accuracy. Four persons were wounded.

Then Unruh barricaded himself in a second story room and shot it out with 50 policemen. A tear gas barrage smoked him out 45 minutes after he had fired his first shot.

Surrenders Silently
Unruh surrendered without a word.

Say Maladjustment In Children Is Caused By Teachers

Denver, Sept. 6.—(AP)—A report that school teachers are a serious cause of maladjustment in children was made to the American psychological association today.

Child maladjustment is the scientific name for early life training which may make "nuts" of many people when they become adult.

The report was made by Dr. Duglad S. Arbuckle, of Boston University.

"The parents' share in blame for child maladjustment," he said, "has long been recognized. The school is too often unaware of the major role it plays in development of the maladjusted individual."

"Both teacher and child live by their emotions more than by their intellects. Yet the training of the teacher gives little understanding of the emotional part of our lives."

He said the harm to children comes from two sources. One is treating them as if they were merely a collection of little brains. The other from treating them as a group, instead of individuals.

Oglesby Children Stay On Vacation As Teachers Strike
Oglesby, Ill., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Oglesby's 600 public grade school pupils got a windfall today. Their summer vacation continued while the school board and AFL union leaders rowed about a teacher.

AFL union pickets prevented reopening of classes in the city's two grade schools. About 1,600 members of the AFL Tri-Cities Teachers Federation, the AFL Oglesby Trades and Labor Council, parents and pupils milled around the Washington school this morning.

When Supt. Wayne C. Butler led nine teachers to the school, the pickets stopped them.

Butler called a school board meeting for tonight and said N. E. Hudson, legal representative of the state department of public instruction, would attend and would advise as to procedure. Butler said he also invited representatives of the unions to attend.

Ralph Baker, Trades and Labor Council president, said the unions would boycott the meeting, that the dispute is "a local affair requiring no outsiders."

Millionaire Leaves Houses To Women
Newark, N.J., Sept. 6.—(AP)—The will of Mr. X, a millionaire industrialist who bought up old homes to provide housing for veterans, today bequeathed the buildings to each of his female tenants.

Only women are to be named as beneficiaries, the will of the late Wilbur B. Driver stipulated, in order that "they should have a measure of independence."

Driver, industrialist who made a fortune in metal alloys, died Aug. 23. His will was admitted to probate today.

Driver was noted for his charities, most of them given anonymously. His intimates called him "Mr. X" for those anonymous philanthropies.

He also left numerous bequests to his widow, son, other relatives and religious and charitable institutions.

DOG BEFORE HER
Los Angeles, Sept. 6.—(AP)—When her husband came home at night, he kissed the dog before kissing her or their baby, comely Joyce Brainard testified today in obtaining a divorce.

The 21-year-old actress added that hubby Carl Brainard, 27, and an inventor, also insisted on staying out very late

THEY REALLY HAVEN'T TRIED CAPITALISM

President Truman's American Legion speech has hampered again on the idea that closer economic union in Europe is essential to sound, lasting recovery.

At the same time he indicated that the internal system employed by Britain or any other country is no affair of ours.

Intelligent Americans must agree that other nations have the right to decide for themselves how they will be governed. But on the other hand they might fairly take issue with one European attitude that is directly related to the idea of economic union.

Harassed by two world wars in a generation, Europeans like to assume they are weary wise in all matters. Broach the topic of capitalism in many quarters and the sad, shrugging response will be: "We've tried it and it just won't work for us."

But a considerable company of economists and quite a few historians, including the celebrated Arnold Toynbee of Britain, believe that most of Europe never has really tried capitalism at all. They take the view that so long as the continent is organized into relatively small, air-tight economic compartments, a fair trial is impossible.

To earn its salt, the capitalist system must foster a high state of industrialization. Well-developed industrialism means mass production, and mass output means economies—economies at least—for the benefit of all groups in society.

But real mass production is dependent on a large free market to absorb the great volume of goods produced. America's 3,000,000 square miles without an internal tariff wall is such a market. And here, obviously, capitalist industrialism has flourished as it has nowhere else.

In Europe mass production has always lacked that wide stage, although island Britain found the system workable so long as it produced for a world-wide economic empire rooted in free trade.

As for continental Europe, it has practiced capitalism piece-meal and half-heartedly. To make up for the failure to create a great free market, its business leaders resorted to cartels and other restrictive agreements for the rigging of prices, the sharing of materials and techniques and the division of markets. These devices were symptoms of Europe's poor economic health.

Any of these nations may live under socialism if it wishes—without trouble from us. But let none wearily plead the failures of capitalism until Europe has made the supreme, long-delayed effort to achieve through economic union the big single market rated indispensable to that system.

INSTALLATION RITUAL HELD BY RAINBOW GIRLS

Assembly No. 19, Order of the Rainbow for Girls installed new officers in a formal ritual held at the Masonic Temple.

Miss Sylvia Plouer was installed as worthy adviser by Jacquie Katz, who formerly held that office, and other installing officers.

Others installed were Elizabeth Sturm, Blanche Tankersley, Mary Lou Stewart, Dovie Sooy, Jean Thornton, Nancy Gibson, Betty Query, Charlotte Fountain, Shirley Wallihan, Norma Cully, Barb Black, Wanda Wild, Janet Pires, Mary Trotter, Pam Sims, Janet Dunlap, Nellie Alfred, Pat Fanning, Trenna Woolridge, Barb Stevens, Janet Conlee, Nancy Birdsell, Nancy Grun, Donna Crain, Carlene Sandberg, Donnie Birdsell, Betty Hocking, Norma Hocking, Barbara Whalin, and Sally Gibson.

Other installing officers were Marian Lair, Wanda Harrell, Joanne West, Betty Megginson, Martha Lewis and Pat Fulton. Mrs. Inez Canasey was the pianist, with Mrs. Lois Hardin as soloist. The gift bearer was Donna Kay Wood.

Grand officers present for the occasion were June Hunter, grand worthy adviser of Illinois; Peggy Miller, junior past grand worthy adviser of Illinois; Jane Hunter, grand chaplain; Shirley Dugan and other grand officers.

Polio Chapter In County Spending $350 Per Week

The Morgan County Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis is spending March of Dimes funds at the rate of about $350 a week in combating polio in this county, John Agger, chairman of the local chapter announced Tuesday.

Mr. Agger said the local chapter of the National Foundation is underwriting all or part of the cost for eight cases in the county.

"Polio is a long-term disease," he declared. "Long after outbreaks have subsided a certain number of patients require medical treatment. The local chapter has provided financial assistance amounting to almost $3,000 in the last year to underwrite continuing care for those who needed it."

Two million flea chose a big inactive dog for their abode. Life was sweet and easy for these socialistic fleas. Food and shelter were provided from a central source, and heat was supplied by the generous animal. Freedom from want and fear had been attained. There was, in fact, a housing unit in every wrinkle.

All the fleas had to do was eat, sleep and multiply.

The dog seldom scratched or otherwise disturbed their peace. Thus the fleas enjoyed an abundant life. And they multiplied amazingly.

The patient old dog, sore and unappreciative grew weary. Unable to support the hungry and nonproductive flea population, he gave up and died. They ran frantically from one end of the body to the other, shouting that the economic system had let them down. There was some talk of suing the old carcass for lack of co-operation. Many of the panicky parasites, disillusioned, perished on the spot. By this time they were totally incapacitated to search for a new livelihood.

Others, bitter in spirit, trudged out to face a cruel world and died by the roadside trying to thumb a ride to the next dog.

A soupcon of initiative and individual struggle, plus discipline and self reliance, and the fleas would be living yet. And so would the dog.

The National Foundation is unique in its ability to mobilize all its forces in times of epidemic. Respirators, hot pack machines and other vital equipment, together with specially trained personnel have been speeded to critical areas this summer on a scale never before imagined.

"The financial situation," Mr. Agger said, "is a grave one but the National Foundation has no intention of defaulting on its obligation to underwrite medical care for those who need financial assistance and to carry on its extensive research and professional training programs."

A Boy Amid The Bulls And Bears

By Hal Boyle

New York (AP)—A 26-year-old ex-airforce sergeant has set out to be the new boy wonder of Wall Street.

Robert M. Tanne, he said his middle initial "doesn't stand for Midas"—opened a stock market office of his own today. Thereby, he believes, he became nation's youngest independent broker.

As yet he hasn't tried to buy a seat on the curb exchange (cost: about $6,000) nor the stock exchange (around $40,000). But they are his next goals.

"I am primarily going after the working and middle classes for business rather than the top executives," he said.

Door-To-Door Campaign
"You don't have to be a Morgan or a Dupont to own stocks."

His idea: to ring the doorbell of the common man and convince him that buying common stock in today's American industries is sound's best investment bet. He plans a staff of 40 salesmen to wage a door-to-door selling campaign. He already has hired four.

Tanne, who has been buying and selling stocks since he was 11, thinks that one of the biggest things wrong with Wall Street is that too many stock salesmen merely wait for investors to phone them.

"The older men rather resent the younger generation coming in," he said. "I know some young men who are making $350 to $500 a week selling securities because they go after new business."

Sit And Do Nothing
"And I know some oldtime customers' men who earn only $20 to $25 a week because they sit in their offices and do nothing. They put up a big front, but they eat two-bit lunches. And they have to be careful how they cross their legs—or else 'the hole in their shoe will show.'"

But Tanne thinks Wall Street has a sound future even though the flow of risk capital today is slow. "It'll pick up," he said. "There's plenty of cash around, and banks aren't paying more than 3 per cent. The public knows very, very little about securities."

"They need to be educated to the fact there are good stocks available now that pay from 10 to 15 per cent."

On Allotment Basis
Tanne plans to specialize in marketing such high-yield securities, and intends to sell them to low-income people on an allotment basis, if necessary in the same way the government sold its wartime bonds.

"The best way to accumulate wealth," he said, "is to buy large blocks of low-priced stocks in operating companies that aren't marginal-companies that won't go under in a depression."

"In a bull market these stocks will make you many times the money that higher-priced stocks will."

The problem is to pick them. Tanne, who had to trace through his father's account until he himself was of legal age, thinks his judgment is as sound as anybody's.

"The first block I ever brought was some railroad shares selling for 12 cents a share," he smiled. "When they got to $50 a share, I unloaded."

Not Bad For A Boy
Not bad for a boy in grammar school. Some grownups don't do as well on horse races.

Tanne's boyhood idol was the late Jesse Livermore, most famous "Boy Wonder of Wall Street." And he'd like to emulate his career-up to a point. Livermore made $3,000,000 by the time he was 27, and ran it up to $10,000,000 before he went broke in 1915. He made and lost three more fortunes, then shot himself to death in 1940 at the age of 62.

"His mistake was over speculation," said Tanne. "He just out-manipulated himself. There is a saying in Wall Street that bears make money and bulls make money, but anybody who goes whole hog winds up with nothing."

Mrs. Charles Hall Dies At Hospital; Services Tuesday

Services in memory of Mrs. Charles Hall took place Tuesday at 9:30 a.m. at the Reynolds Chapel. Rev. John W. Collins was the officiating minister. Music was furnished by Mrs. Arthur Hecker, organist.

Caring for the floral tributes were Miss Emma Raynor, Mrs. Emaline Babb, Mrs. Ted Beades, Mrs. C. P. Thompson, Miss Neil McGuire and Mrs. Hattie Evile.

The body was then taken to Bloomington where graveside rites were held at 4 p. m. Tuesday, with Rev. Harold Martin officiating.

Mrs. Hall, well known and highly esteemed resident of this city, passed away Sunday at 6:20 p. m. at Passavant hospital, where she had been a patient for two days.

A native of England, Mrs. Hall was the daughter of John and Emma Adams Creber. She was married to Charles Hall, who died in 1934.

Mrs. Hall was a member of the Congregational church and was prominent in the Pine Point and College Hill clubs.

She is survived by a niece and a nephew, Walter Creber of Bloomington.

NAVY PLANE COMBINES JETS AND PROPS—This is the Navy's new patrol plane, the Martin P4M-1 Mercator, first shown to the public at the Cleveland Air Races. The aircraft has four engines but looks like a twin-engine model. Two standard gasoline engines are used for normal flight and the two jet engines, housed in the same nacelles, are used for extra bursts of speed. The Mercator is capable of speeds over 300 miles per hour and carries a load of 80,000 pounds.

Classy Horses, Ponies Compete In Labor Day Shows At Fairgrounds

Blooded horses and ponies, 135 of them from Missouri, Indiana and Illinois, pranced and posed in three high quality shows here Sunday and Monday in the holiday horse show sponsored by the Jacksonville Saddle Club and the Morgan County Agricultural Fair Association.

The first show, scheduled for Sunday afternoon, was rained out by two hard showers which struck the west end of the city.

Morgan county horsemen captured many of the trophies and top ribbons despite the keen competition offered by excellent horses brought here by enthusiasts from other sections.

These veteran horsemen, the Peaks of Winchester, collected their usual share of the main awards. Barbara Sutter of Pittsfield was also highly successful, winning two firsts and a second in three classes.

One of the features of the show, the pleasure horse class restricted to members of the Jacksonville Saddle Club, was won by Justin Biggs, riding Red Briar owned by Mildred Biggs.

The show was arranged by a large group of local residents cooperating under the leadership of William Hudson and Samuel N. Osborne, co-chairmen of the event. Gene Kennedy of Taylorville was the judge; J. B. Hunter of Rochester was the master of ceremonies and Dr. C. A. Henley was the ringmaster. H. C. Merriman was the secretary, assisted by William L. Wallace.

Winners of the various classes follow:

Three gaited combination—Born the Feudist, owned by A. B. Rayburn and ridden by Gene Oder of Macomb; Duke of Glenarry, owned and ridden by Mrs. Frank Kyle of Springfield; Amber Jack, owned and ridden by Joan Crane, Emden.

New Delhi Plagued By Loose Cattle

New Delhi, India—(AP)—Municipal authorities are unhappy about the cost of feeding the hundreds of stray cattle rounded up in this capital city.

The cattle are a menace to traffic and to kitchen gardens planted under the government's grow-more-food campaign. Some of the animals are sacred cows left to roam at will. There also are huge bulls dedicated to various temples by their owners. Finally there are the cows let loose by their owners to graze on any grass they can find.

The municipal committee must feed unclaimed cattle for two weeks before auctioning them off or freeing them outside the city limits. Those liberated usually come back to Delhi, however. A committee member estimates there are 2,000,000 head of cattle roaming wild in India.

SOVIET UNIONS SEEK BETTER WORK CLOTHES

Moscow—(AP)—The Soviet trade unions have taken action to assure an improvement in the quality of work clothing issued to factory, construction and other workers.

The newspaper "Trud" recently reported that the All-Union Central Council of Trade Unions had with the assistance of state experts undertaken an investigation of the quality of output of shops and factories producing work suits furnished to Soviet laborers.

Most Russian workers received their work clothes free from the plants at which they work.

U. S. CHILDREN ORNERIER, SAYS BRITISH TEACHER

Reading, England—(AP)—American children are friendly, quick to learn, but ornerier than British, a teacher who returned recently from America said today. Ronald Kent, an exchange teacher at Reading, Penn., last session said American schools were better staffed and better supplied with materials than British.

The 27-year-old instructor at Alfred Sutton Junior School here said there is also "closer cooperation between parent and teacher in the U. S."

Vets Hope To Cut Home Costs

Denver—(AP)—Twenty war veterans think they've figured out a way to beat the bugaboo of high construction costs.

They've formed a corporation and bought a block of land. Plans were drawn for brick homes with two or three bedrooms. C. B. Messenger, head of the vets' group, believes the houses will average $8,000 each to build. Moving-in day is some time next spring, the veterans hope.

The earth's total area is about 200,000,000 square miles.

Czech Children Turn To Industry

Prague—(AP)—The official Czech press agency reports that Prague children nearing the age of finishing school are expressing a preference for working in industry. This reported preference is hailed by a government which has been working hard to channel manpower into production jobs.

In answer to a "what would you like to be?" circular, the children were reported to have expressed the following choices: 4,343 would like to go into industry, where an estimated 5,560 new hands are needed from the schools. 1,210 wanted to work in stores, where only 651 are required. 759 preferred the transport services, where only 60 are wanted. 523 wanted to enter the trade where 1,505 are required. 25 wanted forestry work, which needs no new young manpower.

Teachers Are Red

Prague—(P)—Czechoslovakia now has "Stachanovite" (super producer) teachers whose goal is to speed the triumph of Marx-Leninist socialism. How does a teacher get to be a Stachanovite or shock worker?

Prof. Zdenek Pesek gave the answers to a teachers' conference here recently. "The teachers' shock worker movement," he said, "springs from great constructive enthusiasm and firm will to overcome all difficulties which were and still are in the way of the spreading of Socialistic ideas."

"This work is based on these elements: To teach better — more ideologically. To give attention to the formation of youth groups. To pay special attention to the Socialistic attitude in work."

WAITING ROOM WAITS for manana at new airport in Panama, where they finished top two floors—but not the bottom two.

By RALPH K. SKINNER
NEA Special Correspondent
Panama City, Panama—(NEA)—The new administration building at the new $8,000,000 Tocumen National Airport is half finished. The top half, that is. The bottom two floors of the four-story structure are still skeletal, waiting for some manana when the Republic of Panama has a little more money.

Panama wanted to have the airport in operation by Sept. 1, the date when American airlines were to switch from Canal Zone fields to Panamanian ones. Before the Civil Aeronautics Administration would approve the transfer, Tocumen had to install certain safety devices.

Those devices were blueprinted in for the tower (fourth floor) and the third floor of the administration building. So, Panama authorities shrugged their shoulders, rolled up their plans for the first two floors and proceeded to build the top two.

The waiting room on the ground floor and the nice offices on the second floor can wait until—well, until manana.

Tocumen airport has been operating for foreign airlines since 1947, but regularly scheduled American lines—like Pan American, Panagra and Braniff—have had to land at Canal Zone fields, where approved safety devices are in operation.

Peace At Last From PERSISTENT ITCH!

No wonder thousands teased by itchy torment bless the day they changed to Resinol. Here's quick action from first moment—a blissful sense of peace that lasts and lasts, thanks to 6 active soothing agents in a lanolin base that stays on. Don't be content with anything less effective than Resinol Ointment.

The Republic of Panama has long felt that commercial aviation rightfully belonged there, rather than in the Canal Zone. The Zone, said the Republic was not open to commercial and private enterprise but was restricted to the operation and maintenance of the Canal.

So, in June, 1947, when they opened Tocumen, they sat back and waited for American planes to land. The other nations' planes did, but not American ships. In effect, the CAA had said they would—manana.

Uncle Sam decided to help Panama out. American money and materials went to give Tocumen the needed air traffic control, point-to-point and air-ground communications, and a regional meteorological system.

U. S. airlines are reportedly not too happy about the switch to Panama. They supposedly feel that there will be a lack of know-how in the new operation. To support their contention, they point out that Tocumen has been open for two years, yet still doesn't have a proper administration building nor adequate hangar space.

But, whether they like it or not, the airlines are all scheduled to move to Tocumen. And Panama promises that it will finish the last (bottom) two floors of the administration building and build more hangars.

Date of completion for the two projects is definitely scheduled for manana.

Miss Betty Enfield Weds Robert O'Brien

Couple Pronounce Vows In Lovely Ceremony Sunday

Marriage vows were spoken by Miss Betty Enfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Enfield, 1104 West Walnut street, and Robert O'Brien, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas O'Brien of Springfield, Sunday afternoon at three o'clock in a double-ring ceremony performed by Rev. O. J. Klinkermann at Salem Lutheran church. "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer" were sung by Miss Joyce Muehlhausen, accompanied at the organ by Walter Deffner, who also presented a prelude of nuptial selections and played the traditional wedding marches. Attending the couple were Mrs.

Geraldine Enfield, sister-in-law of the bride, as matron of honor. Mrs. Patricia Becker, sister of the bridegroom, as bridesmaid. Miss Linda Lewis, cousin of the bride, as junior bridesmaid. Richard Becker, best man, and Bernard Enfield and Thomas O'Brien, brother of the bride and bridegroom, respectively, as groomsmen.

Marilyn Wilson was ring bearer and Nancy Brodgon was flower girl. The candles were lighted by Wanda Einfalt and Mary Horn. Seating the guests were Walter Dieckamp and Richard Polie.

Marquise Over Satin
Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a gown of white nylon marquise over satin, with Venetian lace forming a bertha and repeated in the peplum. The gown featured bridal point sleeves and full skirt made en train.

A taria of seed pearls held the finger veil of illusion tulle. The bridal bouquet was a showered arrangement of white asters.

Identical in design, the gowns of the bridal attendants were of marquise over satin, fashioned with boat necklines and full skirts. The matron of honor wore yellow. The bridesmaid, orchid, and the junior bridesmaid, pale green. Each wore a pink bonnet in a matching shade and carried a fan shaped bouquet of asters. Mrs. Enfield's flowers were orchid and the other attendants' were pink.

A blue gown was worn by the ring bearer, while the little flower girl wore pink. Both mothers wore gray with orchid corsages. The men in the wedding party wore white jackets and dark trousers, with carnation boutonnieres.

Music At Reception
A reception in the church basement followed the ceremony. Martha Lewis, Mary Elizabeth Cosgriff, Wilma Brenee, Mary Horn, Wanda Einfalt, Mrs. William Prewitt, Mrs. Hubert Rogers, Mrs. Charles Morris and Mrs. Elmer Enfield, assisted with the serving. The guests were registered by Dorothy Wilson. Miss Muehlhausen sang "Always" and "I Love You Truly." She was accompanied by Mr. Deffner, who also played a medley of appropriate tunes.

After the reception, the couple left on a wedding trip to St. Louis. Mrs. O'Brien wore an aqua suit with black accessories and a corsage of baby orchids.

The bride was graduated from Jacksonville high school. Mr. O'Brien is a graduate of Springfield high school. Both are employed at the Franklin Life Insurance company in Springfield. Upon returning, they will reside at 1605 South State street in that city.

Fowler Services Held In Calhoun County Sunday

Funeral services for Mrs. Maisie B. Fowler were held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Bellview Methodist Church in Calhoun county with Rev. John Collins of Jacksonville officiating.

Music was furnished by a male quartet composed of Allie Suhling, Keith Suhling, Adrain Suhling and Floyd Tresmeyer with Elizabeth Johnson as accompanist.

The floral tributes were cared for by Louise Ball, Shirley Suhling, Iva Mae Jones and Merlene Burz. Casket bearers were Merle Burz, Raymond Sudbrach, Ray Ball, Cecil Johnson, Wilson Sleeper and Carl Ansell.

Interment was made in Hardin cemetery.

Lena Mae Dobson, Pfc. Elmer Hamm Exchange Vows

Mt. Zion church was the scene of a pretty wedding Sunday afternoon when Miss Lena Mae Dobson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dobson of Chapin, became the bride of Pfc. Elmer Hamm, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hamm, Sr., of Concord.

Rev. W. Brook Martin performed the double-ring ceremony at 3 o'clock before an altar beautifully decorated with ferns and cut flowers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a royal blue semi-formal dress fashioned with high neckline, three-quarter length sleeves, and bustle-effect back. Her accessories were black and her corsage of red roses.

The bridesmaid, Thelma Hamm, sister of the bridegroom, wore a dress of electric-blue, fashioned with cap-sleeves, V-neckline and full skirt. Her accessories were also black and her corsage of pink roses. The bridegroom and best man, Pfc. Walter Eugene Dobson, Jr., both members of the armed services, were in uniform.

The bride's mother chose a tunic-fashioned brown print dress with matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a grey print dress with black accessories. Each had a corsage of white carnations. Marion Dobson, brother of the bride, and LaVerne Hacker served as ushers.

The bridal chorus from Lohengrin and Wedding March by Mendelssohn were played by Eileen McEllen.

After the ceremony a reception for relatives and close friends was held at the home of the bride's parents. A two-tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom was cut by the couple.

After a short wedding trip Pfc. Hamm will report at Fort Lawton, Wash. Mrs. Hamm will reside in Jacksonville and continue her work at the Elliott State Bank.

Arrest Driver Of Car After Girl's Bike Is Smashed

A charge of unlawfully leaving the scene of an accident was filed Tuesday against Raymond L. Chaney of Roodhouse route one, whose automobile is alleged to have struck Mildred Price, 14 year old Jacksonville girl, who was riding a bicycle. The girl was slightly injured and her bicycle was smashed.

Three and one-half hours after the accident, according to police, Chaney visited the police station and told officers about the incident at the intersection of East Walnut street and Illinois avenue. He said he thought the girl fell from her bicycle, and said he did not know that his car collided with her bicycle.

The accident occurred about 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon when the Price girl was riding west on East Walnut street. Chaney was driving south on Illinois avenue, and turned into Walnut street when, according to witnesses, his car hit the girl's wheel. She was knocked to the street.

Neighbors took her to Our Saviour's hospital for examination and treatment. She sustained abrasions on her right elbow and bruises on her side. After examination showed that there were no fractures, she was taken home.

Witnesses to the accident obtained the license number of the car and turned it over to police, who began a search for Chaney. He appeared at the police station at 7:30 p. m., gave his version of the accident, and was locked up to await court action.

Elmira A. Bopp Weds Texas Man In Rites Monday

The marriage of Miss Elmira A. Bopp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bopp of Mascoutah, and M. Sgt. Manuel Hummingbird of Wichita Falls, Tex., took place Monday at 4 p. m. at Zion Lutheran church in New Berlin.

Rev. Ralph C. Fessler performed the ceremony. Attending the couple were Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Mayer of this city, brother-in-law and sister of the bride.

Following the ceremony, a wedding dinner was served in the dining room at Hamilton's Cafe.

After a short wedding trip, the couple will reside in Wichita Falls, Tex., where the bridegroom is stationed at Sheppard Air Force base.

Until recently, the bride was employed as chief clerk in the budget and fiscal office at Scott Air Force base.

WHEELS HIT THE BIG-TIME—Dwarfing two men and the automobile in the background, this huge four-wheeled trailer, pictured in Akron, Ohio, will carry oil derricks in Arabian oil fields. The tires are the largest ever to be built commercially. Each one is almost 10 feet in diameter, weighs over 3500 pounds, and carries a 55,000-pound load.

Paul Kumle Falls On Stairs; Dies Monday Evening

Paul S. Kumle, a resident of Alexander, died Monday night at 9:15 o'clock at Passavant hospital, where he was taken Monday morning after he was injured in a fall on the basement stairs at the home of his brother, Wilbur C. Kumle, in Alexander.

An inquiry into his death was conducted by Coroner Muehlhausen.

Mr. Kumle was born July 8, 1899, at Alexander, the son of Emil and Pearl Strawn Kumle. For a number of years he made his home with his sister, Mrs. George Kemp in Jacksonville, and for the past two years has been with his sister in Girard, Ill.

Surviving are his sister, Mrs. Kemp, and one brother, Wilbur C. Kumle.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 2:30 o'clock at the Williamson Funeral Home, in charge of Rev. McFarland of the Girard Christian church. Burial will be made in Diamond Grove cemetery.

Relative Of Local Man Succumbs

Word has been received here by John Early, 329 West Douglas avenue, of the death of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Ellen Monroe of Oklahoma City, Okla.

Mrs. Monroe had been in ill health for the past three months. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Marion Hefley of Oklahoma City, with whom she made her home, and two sons, George, of St. Louis and Clarence, of New York City.

Funeral services will be held in St. Louis Thursday morning at 9 o'clock.

Wasps May Stop Fruit
Mombassa, Kenya, East Africa—(P)—Frank E. Skinner, a U.S. scientist, was well pleased when he left here recently. He had found and shipped to Hawaii 2,000 pupae of two kinds of African moth.
He believes the wasps can be bred in Hawaii to prey on a type of fruit fly which is new to the islands. It is believed the fly came in 1946 with American troops returning from other Pacific islands. The fly is already preying on 100 different kinds of fruit in Hawaii.
The new fly has brought a world wide search for other insects which will prey upon it. Four Hawaiian agencies and the U.S. government are helping in the search.

THE STORY: Gaynel Teare has chosen Fritz Freyman, a young newspaper man, in preference to Barry Blumbridge, a young Detroit millionaire, after both have proposed marriage. She tells herself, and Fritz, too, that it looks hopeless. Fritz, even with his new job with a syndicate, could hardly do more than support her. And Gaynel is the breadwinner for her family consisting of her mother, brother and sister. But Fritz says they'll work it out. Gaynel's family can get along on less and Gaynel's brother can contribute some to the support of the family, although he seldom has held a job long in the past. Fritz offers to help Gaynel tell her family, but Gaynel says she'll do it herself.
XXV
NOTHING that's worth having is easy and it was not going to be easy to tell Barry that her answer was no, that she loved someone else. Gaynel would rather have cut off her right hand than hurt him so.
She realized, with a little guilty quail, that she had not told Fritz how much she owed Barry. In actual cash, besides in so many intangible ways. She had a suspicion that Fritz would not relish the idea of her being in debt to Barry for Pat's illness; he would think she should have managed to meet those obligations in some other manner, as perhaps she should, though she did not see just what other means she could have taken. She was paying Barry back. She must tell him about Fritz at the first opportunity.
The opportunity to present itself was when Barry drove her to Ann Arbor to the football game between Michigan and Ohio State—always the most exciting and hardest-fought battle of the season. Gaynel sported two big yellow chrysanthemums from Barry, of course. Barry never forgot flowers. Her cheeks were whipped to a most becoming flush from the wind. It was impossible not to feel terribly happy and light-hearted, though she knew this was the day when she must tell Barry about Fritz.
Time enough after the game was over, when the exaltation of victory, or the acceptance of well-braved defeat, would twilit this radiance to a softer mood. Yes, she would tell Barry on the way home.
"By the way," Barry broke the silence. "I found out about Denny's new heart-throb—as a matter of fact I met the lady. Made a point to do so. You'll be pleased to hear that she is really a most acceptable person. Exceptional, might be a better term."
"I'm not sure whether I should be pleased or not," Gaynel considered. "It all depends, I guess, on what you mean by exceptional."
"Madeline Day, this particular lady's name, would be a lady under any circumstances."
"Even in a divorce court—twice?" She supposed she was being catty; but she believed she would have preferred someone not quite so sure of herself for Denny as this lady sounded.
Barry said, "I found out about that, too. The first wasn't a divorce; her husband died. The second was most unfortunate: Clinton Day was a rascal. No one could blame a woman for being unable to live with him."
Gaynel said, "I'm not blaming anyone. Unless Denny really loses his head. Which he shows every sign of doing at present. I never knew him to remain faithful to one love so long. And he's actually sticking to his new job with surprising doggedness—for him."
"You should be pleased with that, at least. You remember I promised I wouldn't place Denny in this job until he had given his word to stick. I felt sure all he needed was the proper incentive."
"I know. I am pleased he's making good. Did you know he got a raise last week? But I'm not sure that I consider Mrs. Day the 'proper incentive.' Certainly I wouldn't be pleased if Denny got it into his handsome head that he'd like to be her third matrimonial experiment." Denny might not be any too pleased when he learned that she was going to marry Fritz, instead of Barry. But of course that was different.
Barry said, "Mrs. Day may have something to say about that. I think you should meet her."
"Good heavens, Barry, anyone would think you had been taken in by this female, too!"
Barry smiled. "You know better than that. But really, my dear, I think you're borrowing trouble. Madeline Day is a good influence for Denny."
"I hope you're right," Gaynel said. He usually was. And, as always, just talking it over with him had made her feel better.
THEY were nearing the University. Barry turned in toward the bowl. Cars were jammed on all sides in the wide fields that served as parking lots.
"There'll be a nice jam afterwards," Barry observed. "We'd never get out if we'd tried to come closer. May take an hour or so, at that."
Gaynel said all of that was part of the fun. The crowd to her was as thrilling as the game. She always experienced a prickle down her spine at the spectacular sight the big bowl presented, the rainbow of colors surrounding that smooth green carpet it enclosed.
Their seats were on the 40-yard line in the sixth row. By the time they reached them the players had come out, amidst frantic cheers from each side, to begin a few preliminary formations.
The first half was thrilling and its end brought out the bands for their turn at providing a thrill. They spelled out Michigan and then Ohio State; the drum majors were magnificent in pompous dignity, with their antics with their batons.
"Isn't that Denny down there?" Gaynel had been employing Barry's field glasses. "Near the 50-yard line. . . . Here, Barry, take a look. No . . . wait . . . it is Denny, speaking of the devil—and is that Mrs. Day with him?"
of the second half and Gaynel once more became part of the shouting and slightly hysterical crowd. Time lost its meaning for her, and it was with a start that she suddenly became conscious of Barry's voice making itself heard above the roar of the crowd.
"There's only one more minute to go. Don't you think we'd better get a head start and beat the mob?"
He was not the only one to think of that. Already people were beginning to leave their seats. The first big flaky drops of snow melted as soon as they found a resting place. By the time Gaynel and Barry had located the car, which was no easy task with row after row of cars packed as tightly as the proverbial sardine, it was raining a fine, steady drizzle. By the time they got onto the main road it was necessary to practically creep along, as the long line again formed a sort of procession.
GAYNEL thought, I'd better get it over and done. Before we get out of this parade and hit it up a bit. Before this opportunity slips through my fingers. But, oh, dear! how to begin. She had a sort of letdown feeling, anyway, after so much excitement. She doubted if her vocal cords could ever be the same.
"It was grand, wasn't it," she sighed, whipping off her hat and shaking the drops from it; slumping down so that she could rest her head against the back of the leather cushion.
Barry was pretty much occupied with his driving. The cars in back were honking impatiently for more speed ahead. The rain, which was coming down in sheets now, did not help any.
"Talking about glamour," Gaynel went on, "I think it's something one person must feel for another—to be really in love. What I mean is, you can be awfully fond of a person—as I am of you, Barry, and you are of me—but unless there's that glamour, too, it's just fondness, at least it's not the real thing. There's not that mystery . . ."
"What are you trying to say?" (To Be Continued)

THE STORY: Gaynel Teare has accepted Fritz Freyman's proposal of marriage, even though she had been previously engaged to Barry Blumbridge, a young Detroit millionaire, to be his bride. Gaynel, however, has many good reasons to settle first. Her family, which she has supported since her father's death, must now get along on its own income, and will not rely on Gaynel's salary. Gaynel also owes Barry money which he advanced her. Barry never forgives a debt. Gaynel's younger sister Pat. But the hardest task will be to tell Barry, who is waiting for an answer to his proposal. Gaynel decides to tell Barry on the way home from the football game at Ann Arbor. But while they are at the game, Barry spies Denny, Gaynel's brother, with Madeline Day, a widow with whom Denny is infatuated.
XXVI
BARRY put the glasses to his eyes. He said, after he had located them, "It's Denny, all right. And Madeline. Shall we try to make our way over? It would take quite a bit of doing. But I think we've got time."
"I told you I haven't any desire to meet Denny's new flame," Gaynel supposed she was being nasty. But that was the way she felt about it. "I didn't suppose you knew the lady well enough to call her by her first name," she added.
Barry said he didn't. Except that the one time they had met, through Denny, Mrs. Day had asked him to. "Hum, how sweet of her!" Gaynel was having another look, thanks to the glasses. "She isn't exceptionally pretty. And she looks older than Denny."
"I expect she is. But that wouldn't matter. Any more than it matters that she isn't pretty." She was no mystery to him. He had taken her pretty much for granted for a long time. Now he was more eager because he was not sure of her. It might not be so difficult now to tell him about Fritz. He would get over it, even though he might think he would not. Barry would find someone else who possessed that indescribable something for him.
The whistle blew for the start been so overdone and misused."
"It certainly has," Gaynel said. She put the glasses to her eyes again; then put them down as abruptly. "Have I got it, Barry?" she asked. "Glamour, I mean."
HE regarded her gravely, as though giving the matter his most serious attention. He shook his head. "No, but you don't need it, my dear. You have youth and beauty, joy and gaiety—oh, lots of other things."
"Thank you," Gaynel said. "But I believe I'd rather have that indescribable something." She knew what it was. Fritz had it. Besides youth and good looks and laughter and fun. It was what made him irresistible. Disarming. Barry, with all his dark, lean attractiveness, with all his fabulous wealth, did not possess it. At least not for her.
"Maybe that's it," she said aloud. "Glamour is that something that one person has for certain people; that something that does not exist for anyone else."
"That's a good definition, in a way," Barry said. "Only in that case, my dear, you should have it for me, since you're the one-and-only girl, you know."
"You know me too well!" Gaynel put in quickly. Perhaps that was why Barry did not have it for her. "Glamour means uncertainty, the call to adventure that lies in the heart of all of us . . . mystery. That is the word for it." Perhaps she was not really the one-and-only girl for Barry, as he thought. She was no mystery to him. He had taken her pretty much for granted for a long time. Now he was more eager because he was not sure of her. It might not be so difficult now to tell him about Fritz. He would get over it, even though he might think he would not. Barry would find someone else who possessed that indescribable something for him.

THE DOCTOR SAYS Modern Medicine Works On Causes Of Nephritis

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

Nephritis, or Bright's disease, is a result partly of inflammation and partly of degeneration of the kidneys. It interferes with some of the functions of the kidney. This is shown by abnormalities in the urine and other symptoms.

Richard Bright, for whom the disease is named, was born in Bristol, England, in 1789 and graduated at the University of Edinburgh in 1813. He was one of the famous men attached to Guy's hospital in London, which is one of the famous voluntary teaching hospitals situated in that city. His classic report on Bright's disease appeared in 1827. Even though nephritis has been studied by thousands of physicians since Bright's day, his original description still holds good.

Not A Single Disease
Nephritis, unlike a great many other disorders of the body, is not really a single disease, however. It can come on without any apparent cause or it can follow acute infections such as scarlet fever, tonsillitis or pneumonia. Just how these infections produce Bright's disease is not quite certain. There is often quite a long time between the acute infection and the appearance of the first signs of nephritis.

The trouble in the kidneys is not alike in all cases. Sometimes one part of the kidney is damaged more than another. Sometimes the damage seems to be so slight that it halts before symptoms begin to show up. At other times the condition may progress gradually over a period of months or years, destroying more and more of the functions of the kidneys.

There will probably be fewer cases of nephritis in the future because several of the diseases commonly causing it, like pneumonia and scarlet fever, yield quite well to the sulfa drugs or penicillin.

Note: Dr. Jordan is unable to answer individual questions from readers. However, each day he will answer one of the most frequently asked questions in his column.

5,000 Fans Witness Championship Boat Races Here Sunday

Jacksonville boat racing fans, 5,000 strong, witnessed the Lee Wolke Memorial Regatta staged by the local boat club on Lake Mauvaisterre Sunday afternoon.

Five hundred dollars in prize money, plus trophies were awarded to the winners in each class. This was the first year that Lake Mauvaisterre has been the site of the championship races. Drivers from all over Illinois and some from St. Louis, competed in the events. The regatta was named by the local boat club in honor of charter member Lee Wolke, a prominent leader in racing circles who died one year ago.

The events, headlined as championship races, were sanctioned by the Mid-States Outboard Racing Association. To enter competition the member drivers had to post a prescribed number of points won during the summer's racing. Five Jacksonville racers, although they failed to win top money here Sunday, qualified for the championship races and finished well up in the running.

Linebaugh Has Motor Trouble
John Linebaugh, commodore of the Jacksonville Boat Club, wrestled with a faltering motor through most of the events and had two sixth place ribbons to show for his efforts. His younger brother, Bob, grabbed third place in both heats of his specialty. Joe Denham, another Jacksonville skipper, piloted his boat to a third place win in the class A event. Bill Ricks garnered a fourth and sixth and Paul Engel ran fourth in a single heat.

Five events with two heats in each race, totaled ten complete races. Each heat ran five laps over the one-half mile course.

Ellis Willoughby, an Alexander driver, was top money winner of the day. Piloting his grey and blue V-262 in the class C hydro event, Willoughby, by copped both heats. Later, racing in the class C service department, his lanky Alexander man captained his craft to a first and second place win to split out.

Competing in the free for all final heat—Eddie Palmer, Duane Burkett, Bob Linebaugh.

Class C, service, first heat—Otto Kaleke, Springfield; Ellis Willoughby, Joe Carson, Danville. Second heat—Ellis Willoughby, Bob Prater, St. Louis; John Riggins, Peoria.

Free for all, first heat—Ellis Willoughby, Joe Gasper, Jack Bogosian, Granite City. Second heat—Jack Bogosian, Willis Willoughby, Bill Seybold, Granite City.

CHANDLERVILLE

Chandlerville—Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Jurgens and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jurgens of Ashland, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hampeier of Springfield visited Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Jurgens.

Mr. and Mrs. John G. Murphy of Jacksonville visited over the weekend here with her mother, Mrs. Minnie Garner.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Nall and family of Pekin spent the holiday weekend with Mrs. Nall's mother, Mrs. Rosetta Pherigo.

Charles Collins, Jr., of Rockford spent the weekend at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Collins.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Pittman and son spent Sunday in St. Louis, Mo.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wahlfield and daughter visited Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wahlfield and family of near Topeka, and Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Wahlfield of Forest City.

Mr. and Mrs. Vern Miller of Iowa City were overnight guests Friday of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Sarff.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cherry have received word of the safe arrival of their daughter, Mrs. Russell Sarff, and her daughter in Germany.

USED ON BARRELS

The trade-marks, or brands, of the older cement companies are circular, because they were designed to be used on barrel heads, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Endless pounding in a churn is not the only way to get the butterfat droplets in cream to aggregate into butter. In a new process, the cream first is subjected to high pressure under nitrogen or other inert gas, then the pressure suddenly is released. A little shaking brings the butter.

TWO TROPHIES FOR WILL LOUGHBY

Ellis Willoughby, Alexander farmer who likes to race boats, holds the two trophies he won in the championship boat races staged at Lake Mauvaisterre Sunday afternoon by the Jacksonville Boat club.

Willoughby's driving skill brought his boat in ahead in both heats of the Class C hydro. He was also high point man in the free for all.

Grains Advance Under Leadership Of Wheat, Corn

Chicago, Sept. 6.—(P)—Grains pushed higher today under the leadership of the nearby contracts in wheat and corn. Wheat advanced a better cash basis at Minneapolis and buying of cash wheat by mills. Some short covering also aided the advance.

Soybean offerings were limited after early easiness. A report that bids for new crop beans for shipment in October and November were advanced a cent brought buying by houses with eastern connections.

Receipts were: wheat, 29 cars, corn 326, oats 58, rye 2, barley 118, soybeans 16.

At the close wheat was 13 higher to 4 lower, September $2.05. Corn was unchanged to 21 higher, September $1.24-1. Oats were 1 to 1 lower, September 68¢. Rye was 21-1 higher, September $1.03. Soybeans were 11 to 2 higher, November $2.24. Lard was unchanged to 5 cents a hundredweight lower, September $12.15.

A steady to 25 cents higher tone appeared in the sheep section. Lambs topped at $24.75, yearling wethers at $21.00 and ewes at $8.50. Estimated receipts on sale comprised 10,000 hogs, 14,000 cattle, 700 calves, and 2,500 sheep.

East St. Louis Livestock

Brooks Tighten Pennant Sprint, Single Game Back

Brooklyn, Sept. 6—(P)—The Brooklyn Dodgers surged to within a game of the front-running St. Louis Cardinals tonight as big Don Newcombe hurled a 10-2 triumph over the Boston Braves. Newcombe checked the Braves on six hits in posting his 15th triumph.

The victory was the Dodgers' 13th in their last 17 games, and the seventh straight loss for the Braves. Newcombe's consecutive scoreless inning string was snapped at 31 when the Braves tallied in the second inning.

The Dodgers came back with a five-run spurge against Bill Voiselle. Jackie Robinson singled and Gil Hodges tripled past Heath. Furillo doubled and after Roy Campanella walked the bases were loaded as Voiselle fumbled Newcombe's grounder. A third run scored on Pee Wee Reese's grounder and two more came in as Spider Jorgensen's single went through Marv Rickert for an error.

Another Dodger run was registered in the third as Robinson walked, stole second and scored on Marv Rickert's single. In the fifth, the Dodgers knocked out Voiselle with a two-run cluster on hits by Hodges, Furillo and Campanella, plus a fumble by Heath.

Sibby Sisti's fifth homer gave the Braves a second run in the seventh and the Dodgers added two against Johnny Antonelli in their half. Campanella's single driving them in.

Football Briefs

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 6—(P)—Illinois brushed up on passing today in a scrimmage which featured the tossing of No. 1 quarterback, Bernie Krueger.

Krueger consistently connected on long aerials, including two for touchdowns, to Walt Kersulis and Johnny Karras. Minor injuries kept backs Ronnie Clark, Jerry Slack and Ruck Steger out of the scrimmage.

Two sophomores, center Joe Cole, and end Gene Hansen, were outstanding on defense against the varsity.

Irish Work on Passing
South Bend, Ind., Sept. 6—(P)—Notre Dame concentrated on pass patterns today as the Irish strove to improve their aerial attack.

Bob Williams, tabbed the No. 1 quarterback prospect, did most of the tossing although sophomore quarterback John Mazur of Plymouth, Pa., also flipped. Chief receivers for this duo were ends Leon Hart, Bill Wightkin and Bill Flynn.

Wildcats Hold Scrimmage
Evanston, Ill., Sept. 6—(P)—Northwestern's footballers held their first scrimmage today and the results left coach Bob Voigts unhappy.

Voigts said of the contact work held in a drizzling rain: "We have a long, long way to go to meet an opening opponent like Purdue."

Fullback Art Murakowski was the offensive standout of the scrimmage in which left half Johnny Miller worked a little to try his injured knee. The squad was completed with the arrival of end Don Stonestifer, who was delayed in returning from an eastern boys' camp.

Ted Williams Leads All In AL Batting Honors

Chicago, Sept. 6—(P)—Ted Williams, sparkling outfielder with the Boston Americans, appears heading for his third consecutive American league batting championship with only George Kell of the Detroit Tigers threatening him.

The rangy Red Sox slugger, participating in 135 games, has an average of .353 to .341 for Kell, who has been in 125 games. Williams dropped six points from his average of a week ago, with Kell picking up two points.

Next is St. Louis' Bob Dillinger with .320 and Don DiMaggio of the Boston Red Sox fourth with .318. Dillinger and DiMaggio were tied for third a week ago. Dale Mitchell of Cleveland clings to fifth place with .313, and Cass Michaels of Chicago is sixth with .307. Ten follows Pesky of Boston with .306. Wertz, Detroit; Stephens, Boston and Sievers of St. Louis are tied for eighth place with .302.

Williams, leading in home runs, most doubles, most hits and scoring the most runs, is in a snug spot to finish the season with all kinds of batting honors. He leads the pack with 176 hits, 37 doubles and the same number of homers, and has scored 134 runs. Stephens, his teammate, continues to lead in runs-batted-in with 145, while Dillinger, increased his lead in stolen bases by two to 16.

Ellis Kinder of the pennant aspirant Red Sox, is showing the way to the pitchers with 18 won against 5 defeats for an .783 average.

Cincinnati Whips Pittsburgh 6 To 3

Pittsburgh, Sept. 6—(P)—The Cincinnati Reds exploded for four runs in the top of the 10th tonight to take a 6-3 win from the hapless Pittsburgh Pirates. Ralph Kiner, slugging Buc outfielder, blasted his 43rd homer of the season in the fourth with no one aboard.

Relief pitcher Ewell Blackwell started the extra inning with a single. Before the stanza was over the Reds had accumulated five hits, the payoff blow being Johnny Wyrostek's two-run triple.

The Bucs got one run in the last of the 10th but Blackwell struck out Kiner to end the game. The Pirate power slugger had two singles and his homer in five trips.

Stagg Begins 60th Year In Football

Sells Grove, Pa., Sept. 6—(P)—Amos Alonzo Stagg, football's grand old man, opened his 60th birthday campaign today at Susquehanna university by leading 22 players in a sprint down the field.

Stagg observed his 87th birthday last August 16. He came to Susquehanna three years ago from the College of the Pacific to become co-coach with his son, Amos Alonzo, Jr.

FAN BREEZES

BY BOB MERRIS

Some guys just don't live right. Al Miller conducts one football practice and loses three key players for three or four valuable days. Jacksonville and Routt high school grid-ders have been pushing mates around for two weeks and have nothing more serious than bloody noses to report.

Sam Spink's Injury was a Telling Blow to the Bluejays
Big brothers Sam and Jim have formed the nucleus of Illinois College forward walls for the past three years. Their incumbency in the tackle positions has discouraged younger boys from trying to supplant them and replacements will be hard to find when the Spinks stop. And you can't go to school forever.

ISD coaches Art Yates and Spike Wilson announced yesterday that the weekend preppers will hold their initial football practice this afternoon. That'll round out Jacksonville's grid program. And, while it's rounding out the program, it's cavin' us in. Four training camps to cover, wow! But don't get the wrong idea, we like our job.

Paul Stroud is having great fun indoctrinating his Routt athletes to the principles of six-man football. The Rocket tutor reported that he turned his boys loose on the blocking dummy yesterday and they threatened to tear it up. Completely green in the newly organized football program, the Routt preppers have taken a great liking to the contact sport.

Bob Kraushaar reports a tremendous jump in his J.H.S. football squad. Starting the season with only a 45 man crew, Kraushaar says the figure has rocketed to 70 boys with more coming. He's going to have to order additional equipment.

Swinging into their third week of practice, the Crimsons are be-

Six Egyptians Try For New Record In Channel Swim

Folkestone, Eng., Sept. 6—(P)—An Egyptian team of six swimmers neared mid-channel tonight in an effort to set a new record for a crossing from England to France.

At 6:30 p.m. (11:30 p.m. CST) Mahmud Mohamed Hassan, the number two man, was reported some eight miles off the English coast.

The leadoff swimmer, Sgt. Marie Hassan Hamad, took to the water at 3:10 p.m. (8:10 p.m. CST) two miles southwest of Dover and made almost five miles before he entered an accompanying boat.

The English channel relay speed record of 12 hours and 35 minutes and four seconds was set by a French team in 1938. The Egyptians swim two hours each.

Red Sox Will Use Present Players In Pennant Race

Boston, Sept. 6—(P)—Indications that the Boston Red Sox would depend upon their current players during most of the remainder of the American league pennant race came tonight when General Manager Joe Cronin said none of the club's farmhands would be called up for some time to come.

"They'll remain with their current clubs until their pennant races and play-offs are completed," Cronin explained.

The Soxers' top minor league prospects include First Baseman Walt Dropo, with Sacramento, and Outfielder Neil Sheridan and Pitcher John Hoffman with Seattle, in the Pacific Coast league; Pitchers John McCall, Mike Palm, John Robinson and Outfielders George Wilson and Tom Wright with the Louisville American Association club, and Pitcher Willard Nixon with the Birmingham Southern Association team.

Phils And Giants Split Twinbill

New York, Sept. 6—(P)—The New York Giants severed a seven-game Philadelphia winning streak today, clipping the Phils. 4-1 in the second half of a twin bill after the Phils grabbed the ten-inning opener, 4-2.

Sheldon Jones bested Hank Borowy in the finale, yielding six hits to the five the Giants collected. Bill Nicholson homered for the only Philadelphia run in the fifth inning.

Wes Westrum, Jones' battery mate, won the game with a three run homer in the sixth inning. The blow snapped a 1-1 tie.

Larry Jansen was one out away from earning a 2-0 triumph in the opener but the Phils rallied for two runs and added two more markers in the tenth inning to turn defeat into victory.

Jim Konstanty, who pitched the last two innings was the winner. Only 4,150 fans paid to see the doubleheader.

Who'll Win Big 10 Grid Crown? This Stumps Experts

Chicago, Sept. 6—(P)—Along with the experts, the coaches also are stumped in picking the potential 1949 Big Ten football champion, an Associated Press survey showed today.

Only five coaches went out on a limb to select a winner and they named three different teams, defending champion Michigan, Rose Bowl Champion Northwestern, and the conference "bust" of 1948, Purdue.

The coaching sentiment probably was best expressed by Iowa's Eddie Anderson, who said: "It looks like a four-way battle between Minnesota, Ohio State, Northwestern and Michigan. Purdue could bounce in there, too, and Illinois is always rugged. But, as far as I'm concerned, Michigan is still champion until licked."

Ohio State's Wes Feiler named, "In no particular order," Michigan, Northwestern, Minnesota, Purdue and Ohio State "with the final standing of any of the five depending on how the ball bounces on a given Saturday afternoon."

Ellet Likes Michigan
Coach Ray Elliot of Illinois, like Anderson, picked Michigan to repeat; ranked Ohio State, Minnesota and Northwestern equally; and named Purdue the conference dark horse.

Coach Benny Oosterbaan of Michigan modestly skipped his own little-holding Wolverines because "it's too early to tell about them," and ranked Minnesota and Ohio State as potentially the toughest teams, with Northwestern "only slightly behind, if at all." He, too, warned "watch Purdue."

Bernie Bierman of Minnesota picked them in this order: Northwestern, Michigan, Ohio State, Purdue, Minnesota, Illinois, Iowa, Indiana and Wisconsin. The Gopher Grey Eagle gloomily predicts his team will finish so far down the list because he has found no replacement for departed halfback Ev Faunce and he still doesn't know who he'll have for guards.

Voigts Sees Purdue First
Northwestern's Bob Voigts, another shy guy concerning his own club voted for Purdue, Minnesota, Michigan and Ohio State in that order. The Wildcats open with Purdue Sept. 24.

By not-so-strange coincidence, Purdue's Stu Holcomb named Northwestern as his title pick, followed by Michigan, Minnesota and Ohio State in "one of the widest open races in years."

Indiana's Clyde Smith likes Michigan, Northwestern, Purdue and Ohio State, take your pick, with the Boilermakers able to be "easily the big surprise team of the year." New Coach Ivy Williamson of Wisconsin rates Minnesota, Ohio State, Northwestern and Michigan the top teams, with Purdue a possible outside contender.

Rochester Times-Union golf writer Gene Gribbroek, who covered the tournament, observes, "It's much too soon for any official statements from any USA officials on Walker Cup choices, but last week's tourney turned up enough young talent, and created enough distress in the ranks of the old-line stars, to indicate there'll be some new faces heading for England in 1951."

Biggest surprise to the Walker Cup candidates in Gribbroek's opinion is Rufus King, the Texas rancher, who ousted defending champion Willie Turnesa in the semi-finals before bowing to Charlie Coe of Oklahoma City in the final.

Coe was awarded a Walker Cup berth this year because he was semi-finalist in the amateur at Memphis, Tenn., a year ago.

Britain, Russia Sign Trade Pact

London, Sept. 6—(P)—Britain has completed an agreement with Russia for 1,000,000 long tons of grain and the first shipment is expected soon, the board of trade said today.

The grain contract covers 500,000 tons of barley, 400,000 of corn and 100,000 of oats.

The Board of Trade indicated that the method of payment for the grain may be settled under a broad trade agreement now under negotiation here.

Yankees Make Up Most Good Grid Teams In South

Atlanta, Sept. 6—(P)—If Pennsylvania and Ohio colleges are running short of football talent, look south. That's where the boys have gone.

And the sad part about this migration as far as the northern schools are concerned is that the Southeastern conference isn't getting the scrapings off the bottom of the prep football barrel.

This year's contribution is 149 players, and that's more than a fifth of the 713-man Southeastern roster.

Dixie's leading kidnapers are Georgia, Kentucky and Tennessee. Without Georgia's 28 Yanks and Tennessee's 25, those two football institutes wouldn't be ranked in the top half of the Southeastern this season.

Without Kentucky's 31 displaced Yanks, the Wildcats wouldn't be considered a Dixie comer.

Kentucky has the excuse of being the width of the Ohio river from Yankeeedom, but Georgia and Tennessee are deep South from whatever direction you're looking.

Dixie Says He Got Bargain In Fight With Umpire
Pittsburgh, Sept. 6—(P)—Dixie Walker's 11-year burn at umpire Larry Goetz cost him $100 and a three-day suspension today but Dixie figured he got a bargain.

"I waited 11 years to tell Goetz off and believe me it was worth the money," the 39-year-old Pittsburgh Pirate outfielder declared.

National League president Ford Frick leveled the fine and suspension for Walker's altercation yesterday with Goetz in St. Louis.

Goetz tossed Dixie out of the second St. Louis-Pittsburgh game in the tenth inning, accusing him of stretching across the plate while being given an intentional pass.

Dixie's very vocal protests brought the old heavy-ho.

"I was not stretching across the plate," Walker still protested today.

"I saw an outside chance to drive a ball in an opening between second and third and break up the ball game."

"I even showed Goetz my fresh footprints. He tried to shove me back like he always does with players. Only this time I didn't feel like being shoved."

The Pirates eventually won the game in the tenth, 5-4.

Says Congressmen Watched Tokyo Rose Take Bath

San Francisco, Sept. 6—(P)—Five U. S. congressmen insisted on peeping at Tokyo Rose while she took a bath in Sugamo prison, Tokyo, a former army staff sergeant said today.

But he never told his story in court, where Mrs. Iva Toguri D'Aquino, the accused Tokyo Rose, is on trial charged with treason. Instead, the former sergeant, Martin Pray, told it to newsmen.

He was a Sugamo guard when five congressmen arrived. Told that Tokyo Rose was taking a bath, he said, they insisted on seeing her anyhow. They were taken down a corridor and allowed to peer one by one through a slot in the door.

"We were pretty disgusted," he said, adding that the prison chaplain had written a note of protest. He did not name the congressmen.

The first sound moving picture was made in 1926.

Yanks Raid Farms, Hospital To Turn Back Hot Red Sox
New York, Sept. 6—(P)—The battered but still defiant New York Yankees were all but digging trenches in the stadium outfield today in preparation for the invasion of Boston's surging Red Sox. The Red Sox move into Yankee Stadium tomorrow night for the first game of a three-game series.

Manager Casey Stengel has called up reinforcements—First Baseman Joe Collins is due in from Kansas City tomorrow—and virtually raided the club's hospital ward to muster all possible strength for the vital practice session. J. J. DeLaPaz, games.

The embattled Red Sox, who have won five straight and seven of their last eight games, come to town trailing the leading Yankees by one and one-half games, so a sweep of the series by either team would put a decided blanket over the pennant aspiration of the losing team.

Plagued by injuries all season, the New York club has at least three key players on the doubtful list for tomorrow night, although one of these men—the great Joe DiMaggio—insists he will be ready to play. DiMaggio left the lineup during the second game at Philadelphia yesterday complaining of leg cramps.

Injuries Spike Key Players As Al Miller Points For Millikin

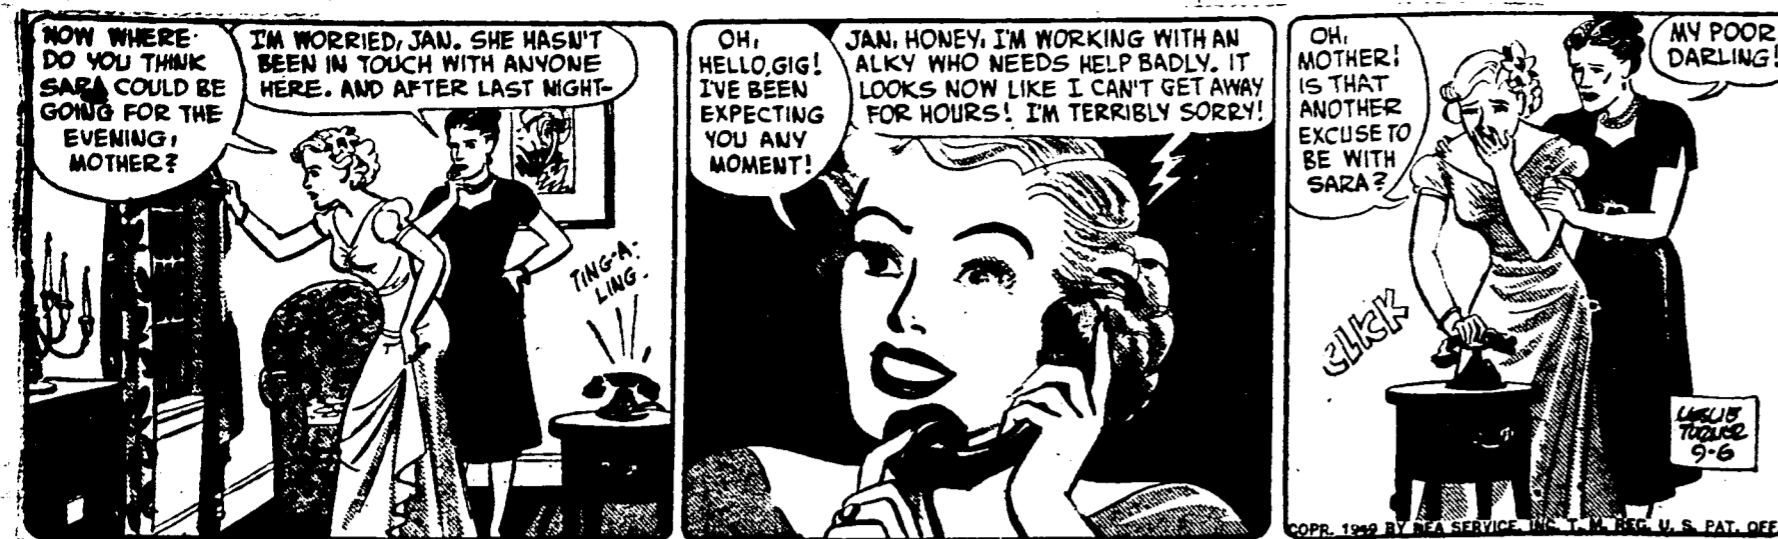

The injury jinx hit hard and often as Al Miller opened the Illinois College football training camp with a dual session yesterday. The Bluejays grid squad was spiked badly when key veterans Sam Spink and Bill Gross were sidelined with injuries.

Spink, half of the famed twin brother IC tackle combination, wrenched his right knee yesterday morning during calisthenics. The 200 pound lineman will be out of action for at least three days, according to the medical report. His knee is encased in a heavy cast.

Bill Gross, line-smashing fullback, missed the afternoon performance because ill-fitting shoes had cut and bruised his feet so badly that he couldn't run. Gross, also, will be out of action this week.

SCAREPIGEON SAID TO WORK Benton, Ill. —P— Is you town trying to rid downtown buildings of pesky pigeons or other fowl? Some have tried metal coils, traps and loud "boos." But two Benton men believe they have solved it an easy way. When officials refused to permit killing the pigeons, they took a leaf from Mr. Farmer's book. A few pieces of wood, a hat and a pair of white overalls made a "scare-pigeon" which was menacingly from atop their building. They claim it works.

Jersey Well Digger Recalls A Missouri Well In 1896

By Arthur Thatcher

Jerseyville—The old time well diggers are about as scarce as blacksmiths in this part of Illinois. The march of progress has relegated the men of both crafts to a very great extent into a stage of inactivity. There are still a few of the well diggers living in this locality. One of them is John "Casey" Ford of Jerseyville, who followed the well digging trade for more than 53 years.

Ford is 69 years of age, and dug his first well when he was 16 years old. His father was Wiley Ford, and it was from his father that John learned how to dig a good well.

Fifty years ago, the digging of a good well on a farm or city property, was vital to the success of the farmer as well as his city brother. Water must be had, and it took men with strong muscles and lack of fear of cave-ins to go into the earth and blast their way through rock until a vein of water was struck.

A Missouri Well

Ford tells in an interesting manner of digging his first well. That was 53 years ago, and the site was a farm some distance from the present city of Poplar Bluff, Mo.

"I was traveling on foot through the country looking for work," Ford said in recalling his first well digging experience. That was the year of the great drought in that part of Missouri. I had been walking most of the day and had been without a drink of water for hours.

"Finally, I came to a farm, and saw a couple of water barrels sitting on a sled under a shade tree. Every one was hauling water in that country at that time. I turned into the place and went up to the house and knocked, intending to ask for a drink of water.

"A woman came rushing to the door and told me, 'get in here quick afore the dogs get to you.' I hadn't seen those dogs, but boy they were coming by that time. They were two of the meanest looking brutes I ever saw and would have chewed me something terrible if they had gotten to me.

"I told the woman I was wanting a drink of water, that I had seen she had a couple of water barrels in the yard on the skids.

"You can help yourself," she said. "It's pretty awful drinking, and we had to haul it seven miles."

Abandoned Project "I took a dipper she handed me and went out into the yard to the barrels. By that time the dogs had calmed down and followed me out to the water. Kind of growling in their throats at times. I took a drink of the water, and it was like the woman said, pretty awful.

"Then she told me they had been trying to dig a well a short distance from the house. The diggers got down and struck rock without finding any water. I asked her why they hadn't gone on through the rock, and she said she guessed they didn't know how. I remarked that it was funny they hadn't tried to go through the rock. Then she asked me if I knew anything about well digging.

"I told her I thought I did. She asked me to wait until her husband got back from Poplar Bluff, for she was sure he'd give me a job. I waited, and the man got home about sundown. While I was waiting, I had milked a couple of cows.

A Dollar A Day "When the man drove in, his wife goes to meet him and says: Pop, I've got you a well digger. He just looked at me. Well, we made a contract about the well. I was to get a dollar a day and my board while I worked on the well and if I finally struck water, he agreed to pay a dollar fifty.

"I went to work. He furnished the dynamite and blasting powder. The other men had quit when they hit a layer of soapstone. I blasted through this and went down through several other strata of sand and rock. Finally I hit some rock that was really rock. No sign of water either up to that point, and each evening I struck water, he agreed to pay a dollar fifty.

"I went to work. He furnished the dynamite and blasting powder. The other men had quit when they hit a layer of soapstone. I blasted through this and went down through several other strata of sand and rock. Finally I hit some rock that was really rock. No sign of water either up to that point, and each evening I struck water, he agreed to pay a dollar fifty.

look at the woman and say, 'Well, never strike it.'

"I had been digging at that well for three weeks, when we hit that hard layer of rock. It was evening and quitting time when I touched off three shots of dynamite. I had drilled down into the rock and rammed in the charges before quitting time. Those fuses were sizzling and sputtering as they hauled me up in the dirt bucket.

Water In The Well

"When that charge went off, it shook everything in the neighborhood. The next morning I got up early. I was feeling a bit discouraged, but I went to the well, picked up a small rock and dropped it down. I listened and heard a kerplunk, like rocks do, when they land in water.

"I got a bucket and rope and let it down and drew it up full of cold water. I took the water to the house, and asked the woman how she'd like a cool drink of water. She was kind of cranky that morning and said she wasn't in any humor for foolishness. She was sick of drinking that water in the barrels. I set the bucket of fresh water on the table and picked up a tin cup and handed her a drink. She tasted it. 'Where'd you get this?' she asked, her voice kind of trembly.

"You got a well, I told her. Then the old man came in and she told him. He was hard to convince. After breakfast we went to the well and found we had three feet of water. We got busy and I finished cleaning it out and walled it up. When I finished walling, there were 12 feet of water in that well.

"I dug another one on a rolling piece of ground. We went down 65 feet to get that one."

461 Wells Ford has a log of the many wells he has dug. His narrowest escape was about 10 years ago, when he was down 28 feet in a new well in the Nutwood District. Earth at the top caved in and fell. Ford was lucky, however. The earth knocked him into the bucket, and workmen at the top were able to draw him up the opening in an unconscious state. It took him three weeks to get over that one.

Ford dug what he believes will be his last well more than a year ago in Madison county. He has been suffering recently from a heart condition which has required him to take things a bit easier.

Ford stated Tuesday afternoon that as near as he can check, he dug or worked on a total of 461 wells during his career as a well digger.

William Lawson, Former Village Marshal, Dies

William (Shorty) Lawson, village marshal and night watchman at Murrayville for more than 20 years, died Sunday at 4:30 p. m. at Passavant hospital after an extended illness.

Lawson accepted the job of peace officer at Murrayville in 1921, at a time when there was an epidemic of store burglaries throughout central Illinois. Several times in the subsequent years he was credited with frightening away suspicious character who stopped in the village, and in some instances tried to burglarize business houses. Lawson continued as watchman until 1941 or 1942, when he retired on account of poor health.

He was born Nov. 7, 1870, near Manchester, and was united in marriage with Carrie Frances Stowman on Nov. 12, 1899, who preceded him in death Jan. 27, 1935.

Mr. Lawson is survived by one sister, Mrs. William Welch of Roodhouse.

The business houses closed during the time of services held Tuesday afternoon at the Thompson Funeral Home. Rev. Woodrow Cain officiated.

Miss Mary Jane Benscoter was the soloist. She was accompanied by Mrs. Louise Ommen.

The floral tributes were cared for by Mrs. Mildred Blakeman, Mrs. Dorothy Baker, Mrs. Ruth Blakeman and Miss Anna Cumbe.

John Irlam, Andy Ommen, Verda Spencer, Guy Smith, C. W. Pierce and Earl Blakeman were the casket-bearers and burial was in Murrayville cemetery.

Legion Votes To Aid Special Polio Drive

Plans for active participation in the emergency polio fund drive were completed Tuesday night during a regular meeting of the Jacksonville American Legion Post. The group voted a direct donation of $50 to the special fund and will man the booth on the north side of the square next Tuesday.

Commander Glenn Spencer presided at the meeting. He appointed a committee composed of George Greener, chairman, Richard Dober and Lynn Reynolds to investigate the purchase of an improved television set at the home.

George A. Vasconcellos and Fred A. Robinson, delegates to the recently held national convention, gave their reports.

Glenn Skinner announced that the local post has purchased 33 excellent tickets for the Cardinal-Giants game to be held in St. Louis Tuesday night. The group will go directly to the park via chartered bus. Preference will be made to Legion members until this Thursday, when the remaining tickets will be made available to the general public. Information on this trip may be had by calling the Legion Home.

New members received Tuesday night were Harold Junior Lair, Robert L. Duncan and Thomas G. Staples. Lloyd G. Ogle and William Winner were reinstated.

The commander announced that the post will sponsor two bowling teams this season. The first round will be played tonight.

The members also voted to hold another smorgasbord party at the home on Saturday, Oct. 1, for all members, their wives and lady friends.

Sick call revealed that Sterling Collins is improving at Jefferson Barracks hospital. Porter Johnson is a patient at St. John's hospital in Springfield and Eldon Spaulding has returned home after receiving treatment at Jefferson Barracks.

The post voted to purchase 1,500 rounds of blank cartridges for use at ceremonies and funerals. A $10 donation to the National Guard was also approved.

Keith Peabody of the U. S. employment office attended last night's meeting and discussed awards of Legion citations to Jacksonville employers who have hired veterans.

Funeral Services Held Sunday For Edward M. Bridges
